CPT and HCPCS: A Dynamic Duo

Current Procedural Terminology (CPT) is the gold standard for coding medical procedures and services. It provides a standardized language that ensures accurate communication between healthcare providers, insurance companies, and government agencies.

On the other hand, Healthcare Common Procedure Coding System (HCPCS) Level II codes complement CPT codes by expanding the range of services and supplies that can be billed. HCPCS Level II codes are particularly important for coding non-physician services, such as those provided by nurses, physical therapists, and other healthcare professionals.
